Post Office and Roads Receive Attention

B. OF T. ACTIONS

A meeting of the Didsbury Community Board of Trade was held in the school on Friday evening. There was a poor attendance of members, partly owing to the fact of the stores being open on that evening. Notwithstanding this however there was some business done and considerable discussion as to the various subjects concerning the welfare of the town and district surrounding. The President, Mr. Adshead, was in the chair.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted and then the correspondence was read. The first matter taken up was the two new rural mail routes. Some time ago Postmaster Morgan applied for two new routes, one to the north east and one north west, however there did not seem to be much action and when the Board was formed they immediately took up the question with the authorities at Ottawa. Word received from there informed the Board that they were not making a practice of establishing routes these days so it was decided at this meeting that the Secretary find out whether any routes had been established within the last two years. If there had been the matter would be taken up further, if not, of course, it would have to be dropped.

The next item brought up was one concerning the local post office. It was pointed out that while the main wicket here closed at six the postmaster was obliged to stay until seven o'clock. This makes a rather unnecessary long day for Mr. Morgan who has to open up at 8 in the morning. The proposition put up was that it would be much more satisfactory to a good many in the rural districts, as well as beneficial to Mr. Morgan if the wickets were closed at six but the outside doors left open till eight so that the boxes would be available up to that time. Many farmers who found it impossible to quit work and get into town before six or seven could better avail themselves of the later hour to run in after supper. It was decided to put the question up to Mr. Morgan, and if it was acceptable to him, to take it up with the post office authorities.

The next question which came up was one of fairly widespread interest, namely the bad shape of the Calgary Edmonton trail with especial emphasis on that part between Didsbury and Carstairs. This, on the whole, is the poorest part of the trail, and so far action from Edmonton has not been forthcoming despite the matter having been brought to their attention. This matter should be taken in hand at once and the Secretary was instructed to write our member, Mr. Claypool, M. L. A., Continued on page 4

Throw Away The Crutches

On the eve of the presentation of the Budget at Ottawa each year the press of the country, and notably in the manufacturing cities of the East, is filled with predictions of dire disaster that will overtake the country if there is any lowering in Customs duties through which protection is afforded certain industries. This year was no exception to the rule, the manufacturers of agricultural implements and machinery being the most outspoken.

While it is only human nature that these manufacturers should fight to the last ditch to retain any and all advantages they enjoy, and which are calculated to add to the value of their plants and increase their profits, and admitting that they are only doing what any other class would do, it is in the national interest that such claims as are advanced by them should be fully examined in the light of actual facts.

In a recent article in this column figures were given showing that in 1923 Canada imported coal from the United States to a value of over $100,000,000, and iron and iron products to a value of $152,854,000, both largely imported by manufacturers, whereas during the same period the value of agricultural implements and machinery imported from across the line only amounted to $11,721,856.

The manufacturers feel aggrieved because of these $11,721,856 of importations and contend that if the tariff was only made high enough these goods would be shut out and replaced by Canadian-made articles. They blame the inadequacy of the tariff from their standpoint for this loss of business.

It is interesting, therefore, to note that in this same year Canada exported farm implements and machinery to a value of $8,187,492. The Canadian manufacturers were able to sell to this extent in foreign markets in which they were not protected by tariffs, but in spite of tariffs levied against them and in open competition with the whole world including the United States.

In other words, Canada's imports of farm implements and machinery from the United States were only $3,534,364 in excess of exports, which goes to show that the Canadian manufacturer of these implements has mighty little ground for complaint.

However, if these manufacturers have good reason to complain as they claim they have, then what is to be said for the farmers of Canada in the light of the following figures? Imports of agricultural and vegetable products for the twelve months ended February last amounted to $185,811,688 and of animal products $16,227,013, a total of $202,038,701. Why should the farmers of Canada make the importation of these farm products prohibitive, thereby securing the whole Canadian market to themselves even though by so doing the cost of living for every artisan and laborer in the Dominion was substantially increased?

But what would the manufacturer say to such a policy which would compel him to further increase the already high wages he is obliged to pay his employees?

The Canadian farmer, however, makes no such demand. All he asks is a free field, a free market, and no favors. He is prepared to face the competition of the whole world, relying on his own industry and the fertility of Canada's soil to win out. He is asking for no artificial props to hold him up, but he does ask that the restraints, the handicaps, the shackles now imposed upon him be removed. With these out of the way he has no fear for his own future nor for the future of Canada.

Why cannot the Canadian manufacturer be as self-reliant as the Canadian farmer? Can he not, through the exercise of his own energy and initiative, the skill of Canadian artisans and workman whose services are so much in demand in the United States, and the great wealth of Canada's natural resources lying right at his door and only awaiting development, succeed equally as well in capturing his fair share, not only of the domestic trade of Canada, but of the trade of the entire world?

Of course the manufacturers could do it if they only would. The trouble with them is that they have so long relied upon crutches provided for them by the tariff that they are afraid to put their feet squarely on solid ground. They prefer to remain feeble cripples, and the very crutches upon which they rely for support are having the effect of making cripples of everybody else and rendering Canada weak and impotent where this Dominion should be sturdy and strong. We continue as a country to limp along, when we should not merely be walking but rapidly running at the head of the race.

"Tired and Worried Nervous and Despondent"

Mrs. M. Chevalier, Belle River, Ont., writes:

"For eight years I suffered from despondency and nervousness.

Sometimes I could not sleep at night for worrying and the next day I would be so tired that my work was a burden to me. I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and can say I am now entirely relieved of the nervousness from which I used to suffer, and things do not worry me as they used to.

"Dr. Chase's Ointment also relieved me of eczema on my arms, which had bothered me for three years. My house is never without Dr. Chase's Medicines."

Municipal Hospitals

Rural Hospitals in Alberta Operated At a Low Average Cost

During the past four years, according to figures prepared by A. K. Whistler, superintendent of hospitals for Alberta, the rural municipal hospitals system has cared for a total of 21,142 patients, at the low average cost per case of approximately $15, based on operating costs. The period covered is from 1920 to 1923 inclusive.

During the four years mentioned the rural municipal hospitals of the province of Alberta system not only cared for the total of patients as stated, but also provided, in addition to the ordinary hospital services, a total of 1,470 major operations and 3,123 minor operations, and had a total of 3,012 maternity cases. In 1920 there were but 8 hospitals operating with a total of 160 beds. Today there are 15 hospitals with a total of 277 beds.

In 1923, the rural hospitals were operated at the low average cost per patient per day of $3.12, being the cost based on a total of 67,941 hospital days, with a total operating expenditure of $212,417.28. In Drumheller Hospital, which had the largest number of patient days, the operating cost was as low as $2.92 per patient day. It is expected that at least five new hospital districts will be put into operation during the coming year. Some of these are expected to come into operation within the next few months.

PAINFUL SCIATICA AND NEURALGIA

Caused by Starved Nerves Due to Weak, Watery Blood

People think of neuralgia as a pain in the head or face, but neuralgia may affect any nerve of the body. Different names are given to it when it affects certain nerves. Thus neuralgia of the sciatic nerve is called sciatica, but the character of the pain and the nature of the disease is the same, and the remedy to be effective, must be the same. The pain, whether it takes the form of sciatica or whether it affects the face and head, is caused by starved nerves. The blood, which normally carries nourishment to the nerves, for some reason no longer does so and the excruciating pain you feel is the cry of the starved nerves for food. The reason why the blood fails to properly nourish the nerves is usually because the blood itself is weak and thin.

When you build up the impoverished blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, you are attacking sciatica, neuralgia and kindred diseases at the root. As proof of the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of this kind we give the statement of Mrs. Marion Bell, Port Elgin, Ont., who says: "Some years ago I was attacked with sciatica in my leg and hip. The pain was excruciating and finally I was forced to go to bed. Apparently all the doctor could do was to give me drugs to dull the pain, as otherwise I found no relief. I had been in bed with the trouble for eight weeks when a lady who came to see me said that she had had a similar attack, and had only found relief through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I decided at once to try this medicine, and before I had taken more than three boxes I found relief. I continued the use of the pills and under the treatment the pain left me. I was able to walk again, and have not since had the least return of the trouble. I feel that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been of such great benefit to me that I strongly urge similar sufferers to give them a fair trial."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

For the second time a prominent Alberta man has been honored with the degree of knighthood from the Danish Government. The latest is Dan. Morkebrag. A broad-shouldered, tanned individual, obviously a country squire, entered a hatter's in Piccadilly. An immaculate assistant, with the manners of a Grandson, gracefully approached him, and said, suavely, "And what is your pleasure, sir?"

BRITAIN READY FOR LIMITATION OF WAR MACHINES

London.—President Coolidge's speech in New York was very favorably received here both by the press and by the officials of the Labor Government. It is expected the Premier himself will take the earliest opportunity to proclaim his wholehearted support of the executive's proposed conference for further world disarmament.

When the time comes for formal invitations to a second world disarmament conference the answer from Great Britain will be forthcoming as readily and as spontaneously as when the first call was issued by President Harding, according to observers in close touch with the MacDonald Government.

The limitation of all armadas would be Great Britain's special interest at such a conference, but it is stated that, when the issue is that of the destruction of war machines, Mr. MacDonald will be likely to adopt a ruthless policy and scrap airplanes, submarines, and soldiers to as near the last man and war implement as possible.

The prospect of a disarmament conference and a consequent escape from the heavy costs of armaments and air forces as soon as the reparations problem is settled, should cause the European countries to strive more strenuously to take full advantage of the new road to a final war settlement which was opened by the experts' reports, according to British officials. It pointed out here, that Premier MacDonald's prompt decision to abandon the Singapore naval base scheme is an indication of the support that would be given by British Government to plans for further disarmament.

Shortage of Farm Help

Estimated Eight Thousand Men Will Be Needed in Saskatchewan

Regina.—There is about a twenty-five per cent. shortage of labor for seeding operations on the farms in Saskatchewan this spring. In other words, approximately 2,000 more men are required if every farmer who is looking for help is to be supplied, it was learned here.

While the Saskatchewan Employment Service Bureau officials were not prepared to admit, others in close touch with the labor situation generally confirmed the information and it was stated that farmers are paying $50 a month and board for experienced help this season. It is estimated that about 8,000 farm hands will be needed for spring work and that approximately 6,000 will be available.

To Test the Strength Of Draught Horses

Edmonton.—The Western Canada Association of Exhibitions probably will make arrangements for special classes on the western fair circuit this year, for testing the strength of draught horses. At the annual meeting of the association here it was announced by S. W. Johns, of Saskatoon, that the University of Saskatoon was constructing the necessary equipment for the use of all the fairs on the circuit. The testing of draught horses has been part of the programme of the larger fairs in the United States, and is said to be an interesting feature.

Would Hit Steamship Lines

Exclusion Bill Would Affect British Ships Bringing Russians to U.S.

Moscow.—If the present immigration bill before the American congress restricting Russia's quota to 200,000 annually, becomes law, a number of British steamship companies specializing in the transportation of Russian settlers to the United States and Canada, will be forced to abandon their business here, it is declared.

The largest of these are the White Star and Canadian Pacific Companies, which have considerable investments in their Russian services. Last year they shipped many thousands of Russian and Ukrainian emigrants to the United States, while they now have on their waiting lists several thousands more, brought from the interior in the belief that the immigration bill would be defeated or modified.

The companies are faced, in the event of the bill's passage, with the task of returning these immigrants to their homes at great expense.

New Refrigerating System

Process For Transportation of Perishable Goods Being Tested

Montreal.—A new refrigerating system which, it is claimed will revolutionize the system now in operation for the transportation of perishable commodities was put through a test here. Carbon dioxide gas is used in place of thousands of pounds of ice and under it a carload of 12,000 pounds of fresh fish sent from Halifax was found after a week to be as fresh as when it left that port.

It is claimed that space, time and labor are saved by this new process and it is said that the Department of Marine and Fisheries is arranging for several different tests of the system.

King George sent this message to all overseas Dominions direct from Wembley: "I have this moment opened the British Empire Exhibition."

The message was forwarded first to Canada over the Imperial cable to Halifax, then over the land wires of the Canadian Pacific Telegraphs to Banfield Creek, B.C., and then over the cable to Australia via Fanning Island, Suva, Fiji and Norfolk Island to Sydney, Australia. It was relayed to Durban, South Africa and Cape Town and from there to the Exhibition Grounds at Wembley via Azores. The commencement of the cable was received back in Wembley just as the message was completed in Halifax.

Loyalty of Jap Sailors

Pledge Immortal Patriotism While Awaiting Death in Submarine

Tokio.—Tribute was paid to 44 victims of the Sasebo submarine disaster, who, it has developed, wrote notes pledging immortal patriotism while awaiting slow death from suffocation. In connection with impressive funeral ceremonies, the navy department made public to the nation letters and wills found in the navy submarine 43, which sank off Sasebo harbor on March 19. Typical of these phrases written by the trapped and smothering men were: "Long live the empire." "We die, but we guard the empire after death." "In coming generations our spirits will serve the emperor."

Tokio Police Will Protect Americans

Tokio.—Reports on the immigration legislation of the United States, as it affects Japan, were submitted to a meeting of the Privy Council, and it is understood that the council generally endorsed the government's conduct. Extra precautions have been ordered by the police to protect the persons and property of United States residents of Tokio. Although some "patriots" are distributing handbills warning of the approaching Japanese-American war, thus far there have been no untoward incidents.

Veterans Launch Protests

Saskatchewan Command Appeals Against Alleged Injustices of Pension Board

Regina.—Appealing to women's organizations, the press and the pulpit for support in their protest against alleged injustice on the part of the Board of Pension Commissioners of Canada, by failing to abide by decisions of appeal boards, the provincial command of the Great War Veterans' Association has published an eight-page booklet to be distributed broadcast over Saskatchewan.

The pamphlet reproduces editorials from leading Saskatchewan newspapers and from eastern publications, all of which attack the attitude by the Pension Board. It cites specific cases of hardship, cases of delay and generally assails the Pension Board for various alleged sins of omission and commission. Ten thousand copies have been run off for distribution and leaders in every walk of life will be supplied with one. Mainly the distribution will be through local secretaries of G.W.V.A. units.

The publication also asks for an "easement" for soldier settlers, a readjustment of a sliding scale, the basis of the adjustment to be on the basis of the year the settler purchased his land and equipment. The pamphlet is entitled "Shrapnel."

New Rotary Governor

Successful Convention of Rotarians Held at Edmonton

Edmonton, Alta.—"One of the most successful Rotary affairs ever held," was the unanimous vote of the Rotarians, who concluded a two days' convention here.

The outstanding event of the programme was the unanimous election of Frank C. Wilson, prominent barrister of Yorkton, Sask., a charter member and the first president of the Yorkton Rotary Club, as governor of district number four. The nomination was proposed by Gordon Hunter, of Winnipeg, and seconded by James Mould, president of the Edmonton Rotary Club.

The retiring governor is James W. Davidson, of Calgary.

A CLOSER CHECK UPON BANKING IS NOW ADVOCATED

Ottawa, Ont.—Disclosures made at Toronto by the liquidator of the Home Bank as to the camouflaged position of the institution are considered by William Irvine, M.P., and others who recently brought up the question in the House a good and sufficient case for their resolution. It calls for amendments to the Bank Act calculated to provide a closer check upon the banking institutions and safeguard against further failures.

A system of government inspection will be advocated by a number of the members, with the idea of confining it to the head office. Heretofore such a policy has always been opposed when the Bank Act came up for successive revision, but opinion, while not favoring complete inspection, has changed considerably both in Parliamentary and official circles. There now seems to be no question that, as suggested in the Irvine resolution recently discussed, reform will be made. In fact, the acceptance of that resolution by the government side is taken to assure, if not government inspection, at least some closer supervision. The exact form of it will be for the committee to recommend.

Fair Managers Meet

Discuss Matters in Connection With Western Canada Exhibitions

Edmonton.—Managers of the five principal exhibitions of Western Canada met in the exhibition offices in this city for a day's conference on matters of chief concern to the managerial end of the big summer circuit.

Those in attendance at the meeting were: D. T. Elderkin, Regina; J. E. Rettie, Brandon; S. W. Johns, Saskatoon; E. L. Richardson, Calgary; and W. J. Stark, of Edmonton.

The managers reviewed stock classifications and agreed upon uniform policies in respect to their relations with livestock organizations and upon other matters of common interest relating to attractions, prize lists, etc. Another item dealt with was the appointment of race officials for the different meets on western tracks in connection with the exhibitions.

Public Must Exercise Caution

Locomotive Drivers Not Liable For Accidents Says Judge

Toronto.—Contested cases have established that the driver of a locomotive is entitled to expect that the public travelling upon the highways will exercise due caution, remarked Mr. Justice Riddell in dismissing the action of Mrs. Clara Semple, claiming $40,000 damages from the Canadian National Railways on account of the death of her husband, who was killed when the automobile in which he was riding was struck by a freight train at a level crossing.

Arrest Australian Labor Leaders

Sydney, Australia.—Six prominent labor leaders here were arrested on charges of conspiracy in connection with the prevention of vessels from proceeding to sea. The arrests were the outcome of the action of seamen and waterside workers in boycotting a steamer at Port Lyttleton because members of the crew of another Commonwealth line steamer were arrested recently for refusing to perform their duties while at sea.

Souvenir of Editor President

New York.—The last stick of type set by President Harding was presented to the Associated Press by Secretary Wallace on behalf of W. F. Thompson, publisher of the Fairbanks, Alaska, news Miner-Citizen at the annual meeting the Associated Press. The type was set in the paper's composing room when President Harding was visiting Alaska shortly before his death.

Duel in Old Italy

Naples.—A duel with swords was fought here between Vincenzo Nitti, son of Premier Nitti, and Guido Francesconi, in which Nitti was painfully wounded in the right arm. The duel was the outcome of an article published by Francesconi in a Fascist newspaper.

and inform him that it was the wish of the Board to have him come over at as early a date as possible in order to take the matter up with him.

The last subject taken up was a discussion on the Hospital District question and it was decided to give this matter all the support possible.

Discussions also took place in regards to the auto camping grounds and the seeming lack of interest given the Board after which the meeting adjourned.

AROUND THE TOWN

Several of our local lads went to Olds on Saturday and brought back trophies for different events. Elwood Evans, John Freeman, George Geiger and Russel Berscht were some of the lucky ones who returned with prizes.

Mr. R. Allen Lewis who has been conducting services in the Westcott and Zella districts for some time back, left on Monday for Etzikom, Alta., to continue his work. The charge will be filled by Mr. D. S. France, late of McMaster University, Toronto.

Members of King Hiram Lodge No. 21 A. F. and A. M., and visitors will hold their annual divine service on Sunday afternoon next in the Presbyterian church. All brethren are requested to be at the Lodge rooms at 2 o'clock sharp.

Didsbury was deserted on Saturday. It seemed that everybody and his family went to Olds to take in the sports there and from all accounts brought back that town certainly put itself on the map that day and provided an excellent day's sport.

Among the holiday visitors at Calgary were noted Miss C. Elden, Miss M. Saunders, Miss Ada Neilson, Miss M. McIntyre, Mr. and Mrs. Mertens, Mr. McMillan, Mr. Roberts and Mr. E. Cressman.

A high windstorm with rain visited this district late Saturday night keeping up for most of Sunday. It blew another chunk off of the city power plant smokestack. The moisture was welcome although there was not as much as the wildness of the weather seemed to promise. It has been keeping showery since.

Mr. J. E. Hugst, the local ladies' wear man, is moving his stock of goods into the Campbell and Anderson store. Jake finds his old location too small and figures that the new store will give him a better chance to display the fine line of goods he always carries.

Maori Retains Native Customs

Above—Pikengill Harbor, Duskey Sound, first discovered by Captain Cook in 1770. It was here that he repaired his ship the "Resolution."
Inset—A carved Maori house.

the earliest days of settlement the fame of New Zealand's wonderful scenic attractions has spread abroad and they are now regarded as without equal by their kind in the world. Within the compass of the two main islands are found virgin forests full of remarkable subtropical vegetation with many rare and beautiful flowers; wonderful thermal regions cover a wide area in the center of the North Island where volcanoes, geysers, boiling springs and countless other manifestations of nature's titanic hidden forces are manifest. The lakes and floods of the South Island are of an unimaginable grandeur and magnificence, and the country provides excellent sport for the fisherman or big game hunter, with its trout and salmon filled rivers, and the fine deer herds of the interior.

At Rotuma, on the Northern Island, may be studied many interesting phases of Maori life, for here the Maori still retains most of the old customs and traditions of his storied past, and all through the country one comes upon him paddling his canoe up or down the wonderful rivers, much as his fathers did before the advent of white man. Little native villages of carved homes dot the river banks and roads. Auckland is the chief port of the Northern Island and is the calling place of the Canadian Australasian line of steamships.

The South Island is rich in scenic attractions, and its marvellous floods are unsurpassed by those of any country in the world. The great range of Southern Alps running from north to south through this island, is capped by many superb peaks, and huge glaciers, rushing snow-fed rivers provide a never ending source of enjoyment and pleasure.

The city of Dunedin, with its busy shipping port possesses many attractions for the visitor and is next year to be the scene of the New Zealand Exhibition. This Exhibition will embrace all industries and resources of the Antipodes, many international features and will attract visitors from practically every corner of the world.

Geographically considered, New Zealand is the Japan of the South Pacific. It has much the same varied configuration, the same abundance of bays and harbors, and like Japan, lies about midway between the tropics and the pole. New Zealand is, too, a land of never fading verdure.

Canadian Pacific officials report that in recent years tourist travel from Canada, and from Europe through Canada, to New Zealand has shown a remarkable increase. From

"I fully understand and appreciate your point of view," Miss Fraser, "but had we left the horses with them, we would have left the means in their hands to enable them to come in pursuit of us with murderous intentions. We would, in any event, have given them a chance to escape due punishment for their crime. In their present straits they are near enough to the Mounted Police line of patrol to enable them to surrender to save their own lives. If Winona has delivered the message we instructed her to do, there will in any event be a detachment in pursuit of them before long. We were fully justified in doing what we did to save your life and perhaps our own. I think that we committed neither a moral offence, nor an offence against the law, in taking their horses and leaving them stranded."

"Did you send word to the Moose Mountain Police detachment? In that case we shall likely meet Sergt. Melvin with a squad of men before we reach home. He is the sergeant in charge there. He is a friend of ours, and I am sure he will start off as soon as he gets word."

The note of enthusiasm in her voice at the thought of Sergt. Melvin coming to her rescue somewhat cooled Ronald's ardor as it conveyed the suggestion of a probable rival. Uncertain as he may be with respect to his feelings regarding this young woman, the interest she manifested in another man did not prove a pleasing suggestion to him. By a strange decree of fate this adventure had brought this young woman into his life. Her attractive personality so fascinated him that the thought of another man standing between him and her disturbed him not a little. It suggested the conviction that his interest in her was now of deeper significance than a mere passing fancy. The feeling suddenly came over him that Mary Fraser meant more to him than many of his other interests in life. Whatever fate destiny had in store for him the promptings of his heart convinced him that this girl, who passed a lonely life on a prairie ranch, would exercise a strong influence over his future life. His circumstances, as a mere passing stranger who, in the course of a few days at the most, would be

LIFE WAS A MISERY TO HER

Says this Woman Until Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Owen Sound, Ont.—"I suffered for ten years with female organic trouble, neuralgia and indigestion, and was weak and had such bad pains I could hardly walk or stand up at times. When I would sweep I would have to go and lie down. I could not sleep at night, and would wander around the house half the time. I tried everything but nothing did me any good, and the last doctor I had told me he never expected me to be on my feet again or able to do a day's work. One day one of your little books was left at my door and my husband said I should try a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I thank God I did, for it relieved me, and I am now well and strong. I think there is no remedy like the Vegetable Compound for anyone who has my troubles, and have recommended it to my neighbors. You can publish my letter for the benefit of those I can't reach."

many miles away from her, he thought, left a chance of winning her hopeless. For a time he regretted the fate that destined him to leave her behind.

Mary watched him through half-closed eyelids, while these thoughts coursed through his mind and, noticing his thoughtful mood, she said: "Mr. MacRae, you must have thought I was very rude to you when I met you on the trail the first time? You see, I was really afraid. I thought, after all, that you might be one of the 'horse rustlers,' and I wanted to get away. You did not look like one, but I was not sure, even though you told me you were a scout. I am glad I did not let you come, for, I am sure, those men would have shot at us if you had."

"Miss Fraser, I did not think that you were rude at all. But, after what you had told me about 'horse rustlers' being in the district, I was afraid that you were running into great danger. I, even then, would have followed you had you not told me that you would strike for home from the direction you followed. When you did not turn up at home, after a reasonable time had passed, I felt sure then that you were in trouble. But I did not want to alarm your father and mother with fears, that, after all, might be groundless, especially since your father thought that you were all right and would get back before dark."

"I am used to riding alone along the hills. I am never afraid of danger, as it always seemed safe—until this time. I shall not feel so safe after this; but still, horse thieves do not come around here often."

"Your mother," said her father, "will not allow you to go out riding after this. She was always worried when you were out alone in the evenings, and she will be worse after this."

"Do you think so, father? Mother is reasonable and I am sure she will not worry. If I am careful not to stay out too late."

"Still, Mary, your mother is not always in favor of you riding so much on wild horses over a wild country, where you are in danger of meeting with accidents. You know she disapproves of you going around dressed in men's clothes."

As if conscious for the first time of her unusual attire, with a flushed and abashed expression on her face, she replied: "You know, father, that I have been acting so long as your chore boy and assistant, that I have become so used to these garments that I wear them, naturally, as a matter of course. It would be very awkward for me to do what I do on the ranch in long skirts, and, besides, I prefer to wear riding breeches and boots when I am out riding; they are so much more comfortable and convenient. Of course, Mr. MacRae, I do not wear these when I am at home with mother. I am then dressed like any other girl."

"Miss Fraser, no matter how unusual your riding habit is, there is one thing about it and that is, that it cannot conceal the fact that you are a most charming young lady. It cannot do that. Besides, in your circumstances, and your daily routine of work that you have to follow in the open, comfort and utility, as well as becomingness, is the main thing to seek, and not the conventional. I think that your riding habit is both suitable and becoming."

"Oh, thank you, Mr. MacRae, it is nice of you to say that." Then with a pleased expression on her face she arose, and commenced to count the horses in the band. When she had completed her count, she found that there were only fifteen horses altogether, and she remarked to the men that one of them must have strayed away, or was, perhaps, left behind with the outlaws. They counted the horses after her and confirmed her conclusion. They assumed that Ronald, in haste in cutting them loose, must have overlooked one of the bandits' horses. That would leave them with one horse between the five of them.

Preparations were now being made to resume their journey homeward. But before they had their horses resaddled, Mary, in scanning over the prairie, caught sight of a detachment of Mounted Police coming in their direction from the north. They accordingly decided to await their arrival.

In a few minutes they were within hailing distance, and as Mary signalled them, they approached at a canter. The man in command, whom she cordially greeted as Sergt. Melvin, dismounted as he came up, and, taking her hand in both his, shook it cordially, saying: "Why, Mary, I am so pleased to see you safe and sound again. We were afraid that you were in for a bad time of it. We started as soon as we received word at detachment quarters and this morning we struck the fresh trail left in the grass and followed it this far. We did not know what had become of you, but we followed the clue that your father and the other man with him were following in the trail of the horse thieves. How did you escape and what has become of the outlaws?" Then he turned to his men and commanded them to water and feed the horses.

Mary proceeded to tell him the incidents of their adventure as they sauntered off for a slow walk, during which they encircled and examined the horses in the band as they passed among them. Ronald, staringly unconcerned in their movements as they walked about, nevertheless, casually watched them as they continued their stroll. He noticed that both of them cast occasional glances in his direction, which led him to infer that in their conversation they made frequent references to himself and the part he had taken in her rescue. While the sturdy upright bearing and the personality of the sergeant marked him as a formidable rival to himself, yet, the inference he drew that he was one of the chief topics of their conversation did not displease him. He felt that his reputation would not suffer in merited praise at the hands of the woman who owed her rescue to his skill and achievement.

On rejoining the group, Mary introduced the sergeant to Ronald. As they shook hands both men appraised each other in momentary silence. Then Sergt. Melvin said: "It is a pleasure to meet you, Mr. MacRae. Miss Fraser has just been telling me all about her rescue from the bandits. I congratulate you, young man, upon your good luck, and your good fortune, in accomplishing it so successfully. While we are all glad to have Miss Fraser back, safe and sound and none the worse for her terrible experiences, yet, we envy you the part you took in her escape."

Ronald, though conscious of a certain amount of restraint in the presence of his courteous rival, was from upbringing and training, equal to the occasion, and replying with equal courtesy he said: "Sergt. Melvin, I am also pleased to meet you. It was by mere good luck that I was present at their home on my way south at the time when Miss Fraser and her parents needed such assistance as I was able to give them. It was a privilege to have been able to do so. It is fortunate that we succeeded without meeting with serious results. The part I played in her rescue was only such as any man would have done under the same circumstances."

He was rewarded for his courtesy by a pleasant smile from the young lady herself. She was interested in their remarks as she listened to their comments. The sergeant then made an appraisal of the horses in their possession and gave Mr. Fraser instructions to hold them till the owners should come and claim them. As to the horses belonging to the outlaws, he considered that they were their own legitimate prize. Unless some law-abiding citizen should come along and claim them as his own. The brands on them were of no Canadian registration so far as known to them. He also warned them to hold themselves in readiness in case they should be called upon to give evidence against the outlaws in case of capture and trial.

After giving the police full details of the location of the bandits' camp, and a description of the men, which Miss Fraser was able to give very minutely, they got ready for their trip home. Sergt. Melvin monopolized Mary's attention during this time, and assisted her in saddling her horse, and making all necessary adjustments. After assisting her into the saddle, he was overheard by Ronald to say that he would be able to see her again the next day, if all went well. He would then tell them as to his success at overtaking the outlaws. After Ronald had rounded up the horses and driven them on the trail leading to the north, they were soon on their way, leaving the police behind at the camping place.

During the first few miles of the trip, Ronald was busily occupied in starting the loose horses on the trail and getting them into a steady pace for the trip. Mr. Fraser and Mary followed leisurely behind. This was a diversion that suited his present mood. In the person of the Mounted Police sergeant he recognized a worthy suitor and a formidable rival for the favors of the young woman, who, within so short a time and exciting experiences, had come to mean so much to him in his future happiness.

There were evidences that were unmistakable to him that the sergeant's interest in her was of deeper significance than mere friendship. But, whether or no, this feeling was reciprocated in kind, he could not say. That she was intimately and cordially friendly with him was quite apparent. He reasoned that he was the type of man whose personality would in any circle attract the admiration of women and enlist their friendship. But such friendships, he knew, did not always ripen into love. Love in most women he knew was more often rekindled than demonstrative, and Mary Fraser did not appeal to him as being of the type of woman who would be prone to make an outward showing of her real heart feeling, unless, as he feared, their relationship had gone so far as to be affianced lovers. In that event, he felt that his aspirations for the heart and love of the young woman with whom he was now beginning to feel deeply in love, were hopeless.

He was thus deeply absorbed in his thoughts and musings, when he was joined by the father and daughter, who then trotted up, one on each side. As they did so Mary cheerfully shouted: "Mr. MacRae, you are our prisoner. I advise you to ride quietly along between us and make no attempt at escape, for we both shoot straight and sure."

"In that case, Miss Fraser, I submit quietly to arrest. Do you wish me to surrender my arms, and is it your intention to bind my feet to the saddle girth?"

THE SOLDIER'S OUTFIT—THE RIFLE

You all know the difference between a shotgun and a rifle. A shotgun scatters the shot; a rifle centres the shot. A shotgun will splash the target; a rifle can make a bull's eye.

I had a medical friend who gave me what he called a shotgun prescription for rheumatism. It was made up of a lot of different prescriptions mixed together with the hope that if one did not hit the spot some other might. That is what a shotgun is like—it hits all round.

But a rifle puts its bullet just at one spot.

One represents concentration—the other scatteration.

When you examine the parts of a rifle you see how it is made just for its work. There is the butt, by which you hold it steady; there is the sight, which helps you to aim; there is the long barrel, that makes the aim sure and that puts power into it; and there is the trigger, very small, but hitting the one spot where the charge is exploded.

That rifle is an object filled full of suggestions for us.

We, too, need to hold steady. A wobbler is a failure.

A piece of glue was asked how to succeed, and said, "Select some proper task, and then stick to it." That is the way a postage stamp carries your letter.

"I have noted with pride that through thick and through thin

You cling to a thing (H) you do it.

And whatever your aim, you are certain to win.

Because you seem bound to stick to it. Then I turn to whatever my hands are about.

And with fortified purpose renew it. And the end soon encompasses for which I set out.

If only like you I stick to it."

I do not know who the author of that is, but he was right. He is a rifle.

We too need to take aim.—Did you ever see the small boy the first time he was allowed to hold a gun?

He held it up, shut his eyes, and bang! it went off, but he had not the first idea where the shot went to.

Take aim, my boy. Look along the sight and see where you are shooting. See if there is anything to shoot.

They say there is a tombstone in one of Europe's royal cemeteries with these words on it:

ROYAL YEAST CAKES

Good home-made bread is the finest food on earth—the one food that everybody eats—that everybody likes—and that agrees with everybody.

MADE IN CANADA

"Here lies a monarch who with the best of intentions, never carried out a single plan."

And to make the aim sure, and put power behind it, there is need of a long barrel. That barrel keeps the shot in. You could have a lot of gunpowder lying around loose and put a match to it and have a regular Fourth of July blaze, but it would not do much. But put a little bit of powder behind a rifle ball and hedge that ball in with a barrel, and bang! It goes with terrific power—a force strong enough to go through a sheet of iron. That is why you go to school and why you are taught to obey, and why you have to follow rules, and why they drill you and put you under discipline. It gives you power.

The free girl and boy is not the one who can do anything he or she wants to do. That is not liberty, that is license. The free girl and boy is the trained one, and that means hard work and effort and holding in, and ruling.

I knew a girl who used to sit at a piano four hours a day, just lifting her fingers. It was dreadfully tiring, but you should have heard her play after she got the power.

Don't you go growling about being made to do this, that and the other thing. If you were not so made, you would never do anything by-and-by.

HEART WAS SO BAD HAD TO SIT UP IN BED

Mrs. O. E. Fitzgerald, 106 Ross St., St. Thomas, Ont., writes:—"In the Fall of 1921, I was taken ill with my heart, but I did not pay much attention to it. I kept on with my household duties, but seemed to become worse and worse, and finally had to call in a doctor. He said I was all run-down and was a nervous wreck. I had a severe pain in my chest which would move over to my heart and it became so bad I could not lie down, as when I did I had such a smothering feeling I would have to sit up in bed till it passed away.

I tried several remedies, but with no good results. Finally, I was induced to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I took 7 boxes, and I am now as well as I was 35 years ago, and I am now 65 years old."

Latest Find In Jerusalem

Recent Discovery Adds 570 Years to City's Age

A further discovery carrying the history of Jerusalem 500 years further than hitherto known is reported to the London Daily Telegraph by Prof. Stewart MacAllister, who recently traced the ancient city of David. This latest find in the excavation of the city shows a great trench sunk in rock older than the Jebusite wall previously found and apparently formed a part of the city's defences in the early period.

On the surface of the trench, which is eight feet deep and eleven feet wide there is a series of broken steps now cleared for the first time of the rubbish which encumbered them from before the time of Abraham.

Professor MacAllister also reports finding at the top of the trench what he believes to be a Jebusite or pre-Jebusite sanctuary, and he described it as by far the oldest known "Holy place" in Jerusalem.

There is enough timber in the tract now under negotiations to provide the company mill at Dollarton with logs for fifteen or twenty-one years.

Delaying Tactics

Stalling the People of the West Over Hudson Bay Route

As the time goes on it becomes apparent that the present government is playing the same game with the Hudson Bay railway that its predecessors played. The line is being used to "string the farmers" of the west. There is no use spending more money on the existing portion of this railway unless it is the intention to complete the line and open it to operation; and if it is the intention to complete and operate the line, what in the name of common sense is the use of another board to inquire into the navigability of the Straits?

The navigability of the Straits was determined two hundred and fifty years ago—and has been redetermined many times since. When Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir Robert Borden and Arthur Meighen and even the present government declared that the road should be built they all accepted the feasibility of the route as established. The proposal to create another board of inquiry into this question is nothing more or less than a stall.—Regina Leader.

THE ASSYRIAN EXILE OF ISRAEL

Golden Text: "I will delight myself in thy statutes: I will not forget thy word." Psalm 119:16.

Lesson: 2 Kings, Chapters 11 to 17. Devotional Reading: Psalm 119:33-40.

The Text Explained and Illumined

I. A Recapitulation of the Reasons for the Downfall of Israel, verses 7-12. Here we have, according to Dr. Maclaren, "a post mortem inquiry into the diseases that killed a kingdom." The historian makes no mention of the overwhelming force of the great Assyrian army, but emphasizes the moral and spiritual causes that led to the destruction of Israel. "It was so because the Children of Israel had sinned against their God." Their first great sin was ingratitude (verse 7). Israel owed its very existence to Jehovah, who had brought them up out of the land of Egypt, from under the hand of Pharaoh, King of Egypt; but instead of being loyal to him they had followed other gods and the laws of the heathen nations about them. Compare the first commandment: "I am Jehovah thy God who brought thee out of the land of Egypt; out of the house of bondage. Thou shalt have no other gods before me." And the children of Israel did secretly things that were not right against Jehovah, their God. "The Israelites cloaked or covered their idolatry with pretences that it was a worship of Jehovah, so glossing it over and dissembling towards God, instead of openly acknowledging their apostasy." Other sins are enumerated. They built high places for idolatrous practices from the tower of the lonely watchman who guarded his flocks to the fortified city; wherever, that is, there was a handful of people. Upon every high hill and under every green tree they set themselves up pillars and Asherim. The pillars were stone columns erected beside altars as symbols of the deity worshipped there, relics of the old stone worship; the Asherim, were wooden columns, or sacred trees, symbols of the goddess of Asherah, a survival of the ancient tree worship. They burnt incense in all the high places as did the nations whom Jehovah carried away before them. Some of these objects were erected in honor of Jehovah, but the worship was corrupt, being associated with the evil practices of the old Canaanite worship. They are, moreover, expressly charged with serving idols, whereof Jehovah had said unto them (Dt. 12:31). Ye shall not do this thing. "What a tragedy—to be victorious over an enemy and yet to be conquered by his spirit! What stupidity—to dispossess a base nation, and yet to adopt the debasing faith! What ingratitude—to win success by God's mercy and then to turn the back on him! How many men have risen above the circumstances of poverty, and have been debased by the circumstances of wealth! How many have conquered hardship and sloth, and been overcome by pride and hardness of heart! Every situation we come into has its false gods, its wrong spirit. Only he who gave us power to win a position can give us grace to live in it. Only the humility and reverence that made us strong in struggle can keep us safe in triumph" (James Reid).

Candied "Sweets"

How to Prepare in the Real Old Southern Style

The southern housewife is the one who knows how to prepare sweet potatoes so beautifully golden brown and so deliciously candied that they fairly melt in your mouth.

Here is the way to cook them: Boil three or four medium-sized potatoes; peel and slice them and place the slices in an enameled ware baking dish. In a saucepan put half a cup of water, a cup of brown sugar and two tablespoons of butter and cook this mixture until it forms a thick syrup. Add barely a pinch of salt and pour this over the sliced potatoes in the baking dish. Cover and put in a moderate oven for fifteen minutes; then take off the cover and bake a few minutes longer to brown the potatoes on top. Serve from the enameled ware baking dish, which is sturdy enough for the kitchen and attractive enough for the dining-room.

An Oil of Merit.—Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is not a jumble of medicinal substances thrown together and pushed by advertising, but the result of the careful investigation of the healing qualities of certain oils as applied to the human body. They were of fine size and the fishermen enjoyed a good holiday. It is reported that one of these fishermen stated that he had caught black bass, mackerel, codfish and several other species of fish but as the representative of the Pioneer was unable to find this fisherman we have our doubts and consider it the first fish story of the season.
